(PRINCETON, NJ) -- The Princeton Symphony Orchestra has launched "At Home with the PSO," a new feature on the organization's website, which serves as a gateway to original, free content including: "Play it Forward"—online weekly webcasts of PSO performances; "Cooking with the PSO"—musicians' recipes; A virtual gallery of student artwork and writings; and PSO photo albums.

This week's webcast is launched by special arrangement with PSO musicians with a performance of Beethoven's Symphony No. 5, complete with video introduction and an accompanying pre-concert talk and program note. The powerful work was performed in Richardson Auditorium by the PSO under the direction of Edward T. Cone Music Director Rossen Milanov in February 2019, heralding Maestro Milanov's 10th anniversary celebration with the orchestra. Normally, this music is only available live in the concert hall or through a one-time radio broadcast. Now, it can be enjoyed by all for an entire week. The PSO suggests listeners "play it forward" by sharing it with others in need of a lift.

Musicians are contributing their favorite recipes weekly to the "Cooking with the PSO" series. This week's recipe includes a video of Rossen Milanov introducing his recipe "Maple Soy Sauce Glazed Tofu," a side dish to be paired with fish and rice. A new recipe will be posted every Wednesday.

The PSO is creating a fully interactive, virtual gallery experience to showcase creative works by area middle school students who participated in this season's PSO BRAVO! Listen Up! Response Program. The students' visual art and writings were conceived in response to a performance of Saad Haddad's Concerto for Clarinet, a PSO co-commission, performed by guest soloist Kinan Azmeh and the Princeton

The orchestra plans to keep adding fresh content, giving patrons and the community reason to return again and again.

The Princeton Symphony Orchestra (PSO) is a cultural centerpiece of the Princeton community and one of New Jersey's finest music organizations, a position established through performances of beloved masterworks, innovative music by living composers, and an extensive network of educational programs offered to area students free of charge. Led by Edward T. Cone Music Director Rossen Milanov, the PSO presents orchestral, pops, and chamber music programs of the highest artistic quality, supported by lectures and related events that supplement the concert experience. Through PSO BRAVO!, the orchestra produces wide-reaching and impactful education programs in partnership with local schools and arts organizations that culminate in students attending a live orchestral performance. The PSO receives considerable support from the Princeton community and the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, regularly garnering NJSCA's highest honor. Recognition of engaging residencies and concerts has come from the National Endowment for the Arts, and the PSO's commitment to new music has been acknowledged with an ASCAP Award for Adventurous Programming and a Copland Fund Award. The only independent, professional orchestra to make its home in Princeton, the PSO performs at historic Richardson Auditorium on the campus of Princeton University.
